

EARTH-HONORING FAITH

ABOUT GHOST RANCH

Ghost Ranch stands proud as an ecumenical and interfaith education and retreat center of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.). For more than half a century people have come for spiritual development, to discuss issues of peace and justice, to work together in creation care, to paint and write, to hike and ride horseback, to research rich and globally renowned archeological and fossil quarries, to see where Georgia O’Keeffe painted or simply to rest and renew their spirits.

Food, Glorious Food: The Eucharist & Your Foodshed

June 18-24, 2012

Glorious food—sacrament, commodity, both or neither?

If most of us do not produce our own food, what is our relationship to the food web and our foodshed? If being at table is a core sacrament for most religions, as it is for the Christian Eucharist, what is its relationship to the foodshed? Is there a Eucharistic vision of the natural world that intersects agribusiness? What does Eucharist mean if God is a gardener, we are tillers and keepers, and the world is hungry? Norman Wirzba’s newest book, Food and Faith, will be the anchor book for the week.

Norman Wirzba teaches theology, ecology, and rural studies at Divinity School of Duke University.

Melanie Harris teaches Christian Social Ethics, Womanist Ethics, African American Spirituality and Ecospirituality at Texas Christian University.

Janet Walton is professor of Worship and the Arts, Union Theological Seminary, New York.

Larry Rasmussen is Reinhold Niebuhr Professor Emeritus, Union Theological Seminary. He is the organizer of Ghost Ranch’s decade project on Earth-Honoring Faith.

Troy Messenger is directory of worship at Union Theological Seminary, New York.

Jay Harris is a Culinary Expert at the Art Institute of Colorado.
