

Planning a Candlelight Vigil for Climate Action

Holding a candlelight vigil is for Christians an exercise of hope. It acknowledges that Christ, the light of the world, will turn the darkness before us into light (Isaiah 42:16). It is also a way in which we as the Church can let our light shine before others (Matthew 5:16), and answer the call to respond to the needs of the world. The reality of the growing global climate crisis calls for the church to be not just reactive in its response to global climate change, but to prescribe to the world a need to reduce carbon emissions in order to prevent the its catastrophic impacts.

To this end, we invite you and your congregation to host a candle light vigil for climate action at your church this March. A candlelight vigil is an act of worship. It is a time for prayer and reflection on the issue of climate change that can renew and transform the participants. Holding a vigil is also a symbolic act that demonstrates solidarity with those who are suffering from the impacts of climate change. Since March is climate month for the NCC, and the theme for Ecumenical Advocacy Days this year is climate change, each congregation that holds a vigil during the month of March will magnify the voice of Christians reaching out to their legislators in Washington, DC. Please take this opportunity to come together as the body of Christ, and to witness and respond in your church and community to the moral issue of climate change.

The steps that follow will give you ideas about how to plan and implement a successful candlelight vigil to raise awareness about the effects of climate change on God's people and God's Creation. After the vigil we encourage you to continue to be involved in the effort to find just and sustainable solutions to climate change through worship, study and personal action. You can begin to do this by reducing your own carbon footprint and the carbon foot print of your congregation as well as by engaging your legislators on this issue. Download our resources list from <http://ncccojustice.org/resources/> and reduce your carbon footprint through our Carbon Reduction Campaign at <http://ncccojustice.org/carbonreduction/>

Steps for hosting a Candle light Vigil for Climate Change

STEP 1: Pick a date and time for your event

- Touch base with your church and church leadership team. Schedule a date and time that works for your congregation, or consider holding it after a regular worship service or time when the congregation is already gathered.
- Let NCC Eco-Justice staff know your plans. Contact the NCC Eco-Justice Program at 202-544-2350 or info@ncececojustice.org.

Step 2: Plan your vigil.

- Plan on the service lasting between 15 and 20 minutes.
- See the sample service (Page 12). Feel free to use this or to mix and match pieces in a way that will meet the needs of your congregation. For instance, you may want to simply stand in silence and conclude with a prayer.
- Ask for volunteers to read scripture, prayer or liturgy, lead hymns, distribute candles, and make sure all the participants sign in.

STEP 3: Advertise the Vigil: Invite People of faith from throughout the community.

- Make the announcement about the vigil at your church – from the pulpit, in the bulletin, on an announcement screen, and in the church newsletter.
- Make it Ecumenical. invite neighboring churches to participate. If you take this step having the vigil immediately after a Sunday worship service might not work. Consider having after a mid-week fellowship event and invite neighboring congregations into fellowship with you as well.
- Invite neighbors, coworkers, and friends from clubs, organizations or the community around your church — this is a great opportunity for witness and outreach!
- Advertise in your local paper and invite a reporter to cover the event. The NCC Eco-Justice Program can do this for you. We will notify the local media of your upcoming vigil. Just let us know at least 2 weeks in advance and be sure to tell us the name and address of your church, the location of the vigil if different from the church address, and the organizer's contact information.

- Invite your state, local and federal legislators to attend the vigil. Be sure to give them four to eight weeks notice. See the sample invitation to send to your congress members and senators.
- Try to have a general idea of how many people will be attending so that you have enough materials for everyone.

If you're a student organizing an event on campus... you'll also want to do the following things:

- Send the event announcement out on every campus and community listserv you can think of—organizations, clubs, academic departments, etc. Also post something on your Facebook page or another social networking site.
- Hang flyers around campus
- The day of the event, and a few days before, “table” outside a high-traffic area like the cafeteria or student lounge and pass out small flyers about the event to increase visibility and momentum
- Consider sending a mass blast of text messages to your friends
- Make sure the event is included in your campus newspaper's calendar

STEP 4: Prepare to Worship

- Gather all the materials you will need.
 - Materials found in this packet: sample hymns, prayers and liturgy and a sign in sheet
 - Candles and a holder to collect dripping wax so participants don't get burned.
 - Pens (for sign-in sheet)
- Confirm that volunteers are still willing/able to participate and make sure they know what to do

STEP 5: Time to gather!

- Arrive early. If the vigil will follow regular worship, have all of your materials ready and available to begin the vigil immediately upon the conclusion of the service.
- During the announcements period of the service ask the congregation to remain after the service and participate in the vigil.
- Make sure to include a table with resources for further study or a list of NCC resources which can be found online at www.nccecojustice.org/resources.html Set it up so that participants pass it upon entering and leaving the sanctuary or worship space.
- Thank everyone for participating in the vigil.
- Make sure everyone who attends the vigil signs in with legible and complete contact information. If a sign up sheet is not the best option for you. Ask everyone to fill out and turn in climate post-cards. Let us know how many you need. We'll send them to you.

Step 6: Hold the Vigil

- Worship God
- Allow your spirit to be renewed, filled with God's hope and empowered to seek justice for God's people and God's Creation

STEP 7: Follow Up

- Announce the success of the vigil. Make an announcement during a worship service, write an article about it for the church newsletter and submit that to your local paper as well.
- Let us know about your success. Someone from the NCC Eco-Justice program will call you to see how your event went, or you can contact us directly at 202-481-6931. Help us record how successful your event was by mailing, emailing or faxing the sign-in sheets to:

National Council of Churches USA
 Eco-Justice Programs
 110 Maryland Ave NE, Suite 108
 Washington, DC 20002
 Fax: 202-543-1297

- If you legislators participated, be sure to thank them with a hand written note. If they did not attend, let them know how the event went. In any case send them a list of attendees to the vigil, so they know how many of their constituents were involved.
- Thank everyone who participated especially those who volunteered to lead the vigil service.

One City’s Success

Last year, more than 60 people gathered in downtown Atlanta to speak out for climate justice. People from various denominations and faith backgrounds, joined together, holding candles and singing hymns, calling for climate policy that provides justice for all of God’s people while ensuring the protection of God’s Creation for future generations. With the leadership of Rev. Alan Jenkins, the faith community of Atlanta came together, united in their vision of a just and sustainable future. The event was so successful, it was covered by the Atlanta Journal Constitution, the largest paper in the Southeast and engaged more than a dozen congregations from the greater Atlanta area.

Sample Letter of Invitation to Legislators

Dear Senator / Representative _____,

The congregation at [name of church] is hosting a candle light vigil for climate change after our regular worship service on [date], and we would like to invite you to join us. We believe that climate change is a moral issue, and as Christians, we are called to be stewards of Creation and to work for justice. We are holding the vigil as an act of worship and as an expression of our call to stand up for those living in poverty who have contributed least to the problem of climate change yet stand to suffer the most. It is our hope that this vigil and others taking place across the country this month will call attention to the need for the United States to take a leadership role in global efforts to implement just and sustainable solutions to climate change that will protect God's people and God's planet.

Please join us for worship at [time] on [date]. The candle light vigil will immediately follow the service. If you are planning to attend please contact [your name] at [your contact info]. Please let us know if you would like to participate in the vigil by reading scripture or liturgy or leading us in prayer.

Peace and Blessings,

[your name or congregation]

Prayer:

God of grace, God of mercy, God of all, we enter your Sanctuary with wonder in our souls. We look into the night sky and we see the brightness of the Heavens. We stare across the ocean, close our eyes and feel the breeze that reminds us of your Spirit. We sit at table with food before us and friends among us and we know You are present and that you have provided. And we are grateful. We don't know how vast are the stars. We don't know from where the breeze comes. We don't know all that brought food and friends to our table. But we know in Whom we rest. We embrace the mystery that is You and all You have created. —Amen

Hymns:How Great Thou Art

Presbyterian Hymnal - # 467

1. O Lord my God, When I in awesome wonder, consider all the worlds Thy Hands have made; I see the stars, I hear the rolling thunder, Thy power throughout the universe displayed.

Refrain:

Then sings my soul, My Savior God, to Thee,
How great Thou art, How great Thou art. Then sings my soul, My Savior God, to Thee, How great Thou art, How great Thou art!

2. When through the woods, and forest glades I wander, And hear the birds sing sweetly in the trees. When I look down, from lofty mountain grandeur And see the brook, and feel the gentle breeze.

Refrain

3. And when I think, that God, His Son not sparing; Sent Him to die, I scarce can take it in;
That on the Cross, my burden gladly bearing,
He bled and died to take away my sin.
